Puerto Rico’s Small Business & Technology Development Center (SBTDC), Technology Partners and Boys & Girls Club received awards from Quality Texas Foundation for their extraordinary results with the implementation of the Baldrige Performance Excellence Program. This is the first time local companies in Puerto Rico have received this prestigious recognition.

The SBTDC has been providing technical consulting support to small businesses since 1997, driving entrepreneurs to grow, innovate and export. Its mission requires continuous learning and improvement to serve the ever-changing needs in the pursuit of excellence and to build competitiveness for its customer base throughout Puerto Rico.

Technology Partners is a full-service information-technology consulting firm that serves a multitude of leading local and international industries, such as banking, insurance, and more.

“We are really amazed because we have experienced such improvements, transformations and advances,” said Carmen Martí, executive director of the Puerto Rico SBTDC. “All of these organizations now are more able to move forward, and we are seeing a brighter future and opportunities to develop to their full potential. Based on that mission, we have identified the process of alignment that the Baldrige program brings.”

Based on that mission, we have identified the process of alignment that the Baldrige program brings.
